Case No. C 10-0257 JSW

JOINT CASE MANAGEMENT STATEMENT

Date: December 17, 2010
Time: 10:00 a.m.
Place: Courtroom 11, 19th Floor
450 Golden Gate Ave.
San Francisco, CA 94102

1 Pursuant to this Court's October 4, 2010 Order, plaintiff Karen Golinski and defendants 2 United States Office of Personnel Management and John Berry (collectively, "OPM") submit the 3 following updated joint case management statement pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 4 16 and 26, and Local Rule 16-9.

5 I. JURISDICTION

6 A. Subject Matter Jurisdiction

7 1. Plaintiff's Statement

8 This Court has jurisdiction over this mandamus action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1361.
 9 Mandamus is appropriate "when (1) the plaintiff's claim is 'clear and certain'; (2) the defendant 10 official's duty to act is ministerial, and 'so plainly prescribed as to be free from doubt'; and (3) no 11 other adequate remedy is available." Barron v. Reich, 13 F.3d 1370, 1374 (9th Cir. 1994). There 12 is nothing ambiguous about Ms. Golinski's claim for relief: enforcement of Chief Judge 13 Kozinski's November 19, 2009 Order. Chief Judge Kozinski instructed OPM to do two things:
 14 (1) rescind its instruction to Blue Cross/Blue Shield regarding Ms. Golinski's enrollment of her 15 spouse, and (2) to cease its interference in Ms. Golinski's enrollment of her spouse to her health 16 plan. OPM has not appealed the Chief Judge's Order, and continues to violate it. OPM's duties 17 are clearly ministerial and do not implicate any regulatory discretionary power. No other remedy 18 is available to Ms. Golinski. As a judicial employee, the EDR tribunal is the only forum where 19 Ms. Golinski may seek redress for unlawful personnel actions. As OPM has refused to cease its 20 interference with that tribunal's order, Ms. Golinski's mandamus claim before this Court to 21 enforce that order is the only means by which she can obtain relief for the unlawful 22 discrimination that she has been found to have suffered.

23 2. Defendants' Statement

24 Plaintiff invokes this Court's mandamus jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1361, which only 25 "exists when a plaintiff has a clear right to relief, a defendant has a clear duty to act and no other 26 adequate remedy is available." Pit River Home & Agr. Co-op. Ass'n v. United States, 30 F.3d 27 1088, 1097 (9th Cir. 1994). Mandamus jurisdiction does not exist in this case because OPM does 28 not have a clear, ministerial duty to act: it is not bound by the EDR Panel's administrative orders.

1 In addition, plaintiff has the right to seek judicial review of OPM's actions under the APA, 5 2 U.S.C. § 701 et seq., and Congress has expressly provided for federal court jurisdiction over such 3 a claim concerning the FEHBP. 5 U.S.C. § 8912. These are "adequate remed[ies]" that, likewise, 4 preclude mandamus jurisdiction.

5 B. Personal Jurisdiction and Venue

6 No issues exist regarding personal jurisdiction and venue.

7 C. Parties Remaining to Be Served

8 No parties remain to be served.

9 II. PRINCIPAL FACTUAL ISSUES

10 A. Plaintiff's Statement

11 In January 2009, the Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth 12 Circuit found that plaintiff Karen Golinski, a staff attorney for the Ninth Circuit, has been 13 suffering unlawful discrimination in the terms of her employment. Judicial employees are barred 14 from bringing suit to redress employment discrimination claims, but are instead required to 15 submit their claims for adjudication in the Ninth Circuit's Employment Dispute Resolution 16 ("EDR") process. Blankenship v. McDonald, 176 F.3d 1192, 1195 (9th Cir. 1999). That EDR 17 process is their sole remedy. Id. Nor may judicial employees circumvent that prohibition by 18 challenging discriminatory practices under other federal statutes, such as the Administrative 19 Procedure Act. Veit v. Heckler, 746 F.2d 508, 511 (9th Cir. 1984) (dismissing APA claim); 20 Orsay v. United States DOJ, 289 F.3d 1125, 1130 (9th Cir. 2002) (dismissing Privacy Act claim).

21 The Chief Judge, presiding over Ms. Golinski's EDR tribunal, found that Ms. Golinski 22 was not receiving equal pay for equal work. Specifically, her request to add her same-sex spouse 23 to her family health insurance plan had been denied, whereas similarly situated heterosexual 24 coworkers with different-sex spouses are permitted to add their spouses to their health plans. The 25 Chief Judge determined that this denial violated the Ninth Circuit's policy barring discrimination 26 based on sex and sexual orientation — a policy that has the force of federal law — and ordered 27 remedial action. He directed the Administrative Office of the Courts ("AO") to process her 28 enrollment forms and send them to her insurance carrier.

1 The AO complied. OPM, however, sent a letter to Ms. Golinski's insurance carrier 2 instructing the carrier not to comply with the Chief Judge's Order. In November 2009, the Chief 3 Judge issued another Order, addressing OPM's conduct in "thwarting the relief [he] had ordered."
 4 In that Order, the Chief Judge found that he had the authority, under both the Ninth Circuit's 5 Employment Dispute Resolution Plan and the separation of powers doctrine, to interpret laws 6 applicable to judicial employees that would displace "any contrary interpretation by an agency or 7 an officer of the Executive." The Chief Judge directed that the November Order be served on 8 OPM, and invited the agency to appeal any portions of the Order that concerned it. OPM did not 9 comply. OPM did not appeal, either. Instead, on December 18, 2009, OPM issued a press release 10 announcing its refusal to comply because the Chief Judge's order purportedly "is not binding on 11 OPM."

12 On December 22, 2009, the Chief Judge issued another Order noting that OPM's time to 13 appeal had expired and that, accordingly, his prior orders were final and preclusive as to OPM.
 14 The Order authorized Ms. Golinski to seek enforcement of the Chief Judge's Orders against OPM 15 at this time. Ms. Golinski filed this action on January 20, 2010.

16 Plaintiff agrees that, as defendants state below, the factual and procedural history is 17 largely undisputed. Plaintiff notes, however, that defendants' statement below contains various 18 legal assertions concerning OPM's authority, the authority of the Chief Judge, and the 19 applicability of the Defense of Marriage Act, with which plaintiff disagrees and believes to be 20 fundamentally incorrect. Plaintiff does not rebut those assertions here, as such an undertaking is 21 beyond the scope of this case management statement.

22 B. Defendants' Statement

23 Beyond the procedural history of plaintiff's administrative complaint under the Ninth 24 Circuit's Employee Dispute Resolution ("EDR") Plan, there are no major factual issues. That 25 procedural history, the facts of which appear to be undisputed, is set forth below.
 26

27 Plaintiff Karen Golinski, a staff attorney with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth 28 Circuit, is enrolled in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program ("FEHBP"). The plaintiff

1 is married under the laws of California to a spouse who, like plaintiff, is a woman. On October 2, 2 2008, plaintiff filed an administrative complaint under the Ninth Circuit EDR Plan, seeking relief 3 from the decision of the AOUSC denying enrollment of her spouse in the FEHBP.

4 Under the Federal Employees Health Benefits Act of 1959 (“FEHBA”), 5 U.S.C. § 8901 5 et seq., an employee may enroll in an OPM-approved insurance plan by submitting a request to 6 her employing agency, for either individual or “self and family” coverage. 5 U.S.C. § 8905(a); 5 7 C.F.R. § 890.102. The employing agency makes an initial enrollment decision in writing which 8 must inform the employee that she has a right to seek reconsideration from the employing agency 9 within 30 days. 5 C.F.R. § 890.104. The employing agency’s decision on a reconsideration 10 request must also be in writing, must state findings and conclusions, and is the agency’s final 11 decision. Id. That decision is subject to OPM’s corrective authority, however. Id. § 890.103(b).
 12 OPM’s regulations and the FEHBA provide for judicial review of enrollment decisions after 13 exhaustion of administrative remedies. 5 U.S.C. § 8912; 5 C.F.R. § 890.107. Such judicial 14 review would be under the Administrative Procedure Act (“APA”), 5 U.S.C. §§ 701 et seq. The 15 FEHBP regulations apply generally to federal employees, without regard to which branch of 16 government employs them. See generally 5 C.F.R. Part 890. Plaintiff does not allege that she 17 exhausted her administrative remedies under the FEHBA or OPM’s implementing regulations, 18 and OPM is not and was never a party to the EDR proceeding.
 19

20 In the AOUSC’s view, the FEHBA, 5 U.S.C. §§ 8901-8914, when read in light of DOMA, 21 did not permit OPM to contract with an insurance carrier for a health benefits plan covering an 22 employee’s same-sex spouse. See In re Golinski, 587 F.3d 901, 902 (9th Cir. EDR Plan 2009); 23 see also 5 U.S.C. §§ 8901(5), 8903(1), 8905(a) (providing for enrollment of a “spouse” in a 24 FEHBP family plan). DOMA provides in pertinent part:
 25

26 In determining the meaning of any Act of Congress, or of any ruling, regulation, or 27 interpretation of the various administrative bureaus and agencies of the United

1 States, the word “marriage” means only a legal union between one man and one 2 woman as husband and wife, and the word “spouse” refers only to a person of the 3 opposite sex who is a husband or wife.

4 1 U.S.C. § 7.

5 The Honorable Alex Kozinski heard the EDR complaint and entered an order in the 6 internal EDR process requiring the Director of the AOUSC to submit plaintiff’s enrollment form 7 to her health insurance carrier. The AOUSC complied with that order. Plaintiff’s insurance 8 carriers sought guidance from OPM, which, acting in its statutorily-assigned capacity as the 9 government-wide administrator of the FEHBP, see 5 U.S.C. §§ 8901 et seq., advised the AOUSC
 10 and plaintiff’s insurance carriers that DOMA, 1 U.S.C. § 7, forecloses enrolling plaintiff’s same-11 sex spouse in the FEHBP. This was consistent with OPM’s long-standing guidance to federal 12 agencies. See OPM, Benefits Administration Letter No. 96-111, at 3 (Nov. 15, 1996), available 13 at <http://www.opm.gov/retire/pubs/bals/1996/96-111.pdf>. On November 19, 2009, Chief Judge 14 Kozinski entered another order in the EDR proceeding that directed OPM to “rescind its guidance 15 or directive to the [insurance carrier] that [plaintiff’s] wife is not eligible to be enrolled as her 16 spouse . . . because of her sex or sexual orientation” and to permit the enrollment.
 17

18 The November 19, 2009 Order concluded that Ms. Golinski was entitled to, inter alia, 19 prospective relief that would enable her spouse to enroll in her FEHBP plan. The Order directed 20 OPM not to “advise [the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association] that providing coverage for 21 Ms. Golinski’s wife violates DOMA or any other federal law” and not to “interfere in any way 22 with the delivery of health benefits to Ms. Golinski’s wife on the basis of her sex or sexual 23 orientation.” Id. at 963-64.

24 On December 17, 2009, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association filed a petition for 25 review of the November 19, 2009 Order with the Judicial Council of the Ninth Circuit, arguing 26 that “the Judicial Council has no jurisdiction over [the Association] under the EDR Plan” and 27
 28

1 that, in any event, Chief Judge Kozinski's conclusion that the FEHBA permits enrollment of 2 same-sex spouses was incorrect. On December 22, 2009, Chief Judge Kozinski issued another 3 order in the EDR proceeding, stating that the time for appealing his prior orders had expired; that 4 OPM and the AOUSC had not appealed; and that, accordingly, his orders were "final and 5 preclusive on all issues decided therein as to [the AOUSC and OPM]."

6 III. PRINCIPAL LEGAL ISSUES

7 Whether the requirements for mandamus have been met.

8 IV. MOTIONS

9 Plaintiff filed a motion for a preliminary injunction on January 26, 2010. Defendants 10 moved to dismiss the First Amended Complaint on May 10, 2010, for lack of subject matter 11 jurisdiction pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1) and failure to state a claim upon 12 which relief can be granted pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). Both motions 13 are fully briefed and set for hearing on December 17, 2010 at 10:00 a.m.

14 V. AMENDMENT OF PLEADINGS

15 Defendants have filed a motion to dismiss in response to the First Amended Complaint.
 16 Plaintiff does not anticipate any further amendments to the complaint, except in the circumstance 17 that defendants' motion to dismiss is granted with leave to amend.

18 VI. EVIDENCE PRESERVATION

19 The parties have undertaken to preserve evidence relevant to the issues reasonably evident 20 in this action.

21 VII. DISCLOSURES

22 Plaintiff made her initial disclosures on Monday, June 7, 2010, as provided under Federal 23 Rule of Civil Procedure 26.

24 Defendants contend that this case can and should be resolved by dispositive motion as a 25 matter of law and that no discovery is necessary. Accordingly, defendants object to any initial 26 disclosure requirement in this action.

1 VIII. DISCOVERY

2 A. Anticipated Scope of Discovery

3 1. Plaintiff's position

4 On April 8, 2010, plaintiff served one set of requests for admission (containing eight 5 requests) and one set of interrogatories (containing two interrogatories). Those requests were 6 deemed served as of May 24, 2010, upon the completion of the Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(f) conference 7 between the parties. Plaintiff does not anticipate further discovery at this time.

8 2. Defendants' position

9 Defendants contend that this case can and should be resolved by dispositive motion as a 10 matter of law and that no discovery is necessary. Accordingly, defendants do not anticipate any 11 discovery at this time. If the Court disagrees, defendants reserve the right to reevaluate whether 12 affirmative discovery is appropriate.

13 In any event, defendants submit that discovery should not be regarded as open yet. The 14 parties submitted their first Joint Case Management Statement on June 4, 2010 to the Court 15 previously assigned to this matter [Docket No. 50], in which defendants set forth their position 16 that discovery was not appropriate or, in the alternative, should be stayed pending resolution of 17 defendants' dispositive motion. Subsequently, that Court vacated the Case Management 18 Conference previously scheduled for June 15, 2010 [Minute Order of June 15, 2010], and did not 19 enter a Case Management Order that would have, inter alia, "establish[ed] a disclosure and 20 discovery plan . . ." LR 16-10(b).

21 B. Modification of Discovery Rules / Phasing

22 The parties do not propose any modifications of the discovery rules or any phasing of 23 discovery.

24 C. Stay of Discovery

25 1. Plaintiff's position

26 The parties met and conferred on April 7, 2010, and May 24, 2010, as required under the 27 Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and discovery is, accordingly, open. As indicated above, 28 plaintiff has served very minimal written discovery and anticipates no further discovery.

1 Defendants have stated that they plan to seek a stay of discovery until resolution of their motion 2 to dismiss. Such a stay is unnecessary. The response deadline for the discovery served by 3 plaintiff passed on June 28, 2010, without a response from defendants. Accordingly, pursuant to 4 Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(3), plaintiff's requests for admission have been admitted. Plaintiff's 5 interrogatories sought answers only if those requests for admission were not admitted in full.
 6 Neither party anticipates serving any additional discovery. Accordingly, there is no pending or 7 anticipated discovery and, correspondingly, there is no need for a stay.

8 2. Defendants' position

9 Defendants moved to dismiss plaintiff's Amended Complaint for lack of subject matter 10 jurisdiction and failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted on May 10, 2010; 11 because the Amended Complaint raises only questions of law, discovery is neither necessary nor 12 appropriate in the first instance, as noted in Part XII.A, supra. In the alternative, defendants 13 submit that discovery should be stayed while this Court resolves defendants' dispositive motion 14 which may, of course, eliminate the need for any further proceedings. Defendants will submit a 15 motion to that effect should the Court determine that briefing would be of utility.

16 Courts have broad discretion to order a stay of all discovery where it appears that the case 17 can be resolved through a dispositive motion. See e.g. Jarvis v. Regan, 833 F.2d 149, 155 (9th 18 Cir. 1987); B.R.S. Land Investors v. United States, 596 F.2d 353, 356 (9th Cir. 1979); Petrus v.
 19 Bowen, 833 F.2d 581, 583 (5th Cir. 1987) ("trial court has broad discretion and inherent power to 20 stay discovery until preliminary questions that may dispose of the case are determined"). In 21 particular, where a motion to dismiss presents questions of law for which factual discovery is 22 neither necessary nor appropriate, as is typically the case where the defendant challenges the 23 court's subject matter jurisdiction, discovery should be stayed pending a resolution of the motion.
 24 See Wagh v. Metris Direct Inc., 363 F.3d 821, 829 (9th Cir. 2003) (discovery at the pleading 25 stage is only appropriate where factual issues are raised by a Rule 12(b) motion.). See generally 6 26 8

1 Moore's Federal Practice § 26.105[3][c]. Thus, until this Court has considered defendants' 2 motion to dismiss and determined its subject matter jurisdiction, "defendant[s] should not be put 3 to the trouble and expense of any further proceeding, and the time of court should not be occupied 4 with any further proceeding." United Transport Serv. Employees of America, CIO v. Nat'l 5 Mediation Bd., 179 F.2d 446, 454 (D.C. Cir. 1949).

7 In response to plaintiff's suggestion that her requests for admission should be deemed 8 admitted pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(3), defendants note that such suggestion is incorrect.
 9 Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(3), a matter is deemed admitted only where the party served has 10 failed to timely "serve[] on the requesting party a written answer or objection addressed to the 11 matter and signed by the party or its attorney." Fed. R. Civ. P. 36(a)(3). Although defendants 12 submit that discovery should not yet be deemed open, see Part VIII.A.2, supra, and in fact is not 13 appropriate in this matter, defendants responded informally in writing to plaintiffs' requests in a 14 letter signed by defendants' counsel, and represented what their responses would be if the 15 requests were deemed properly served. Such response would satisfy the requirements of Fed. R.
 16 Civ. P. 36(a)(3) should this Court disagree and conclude that discovery was open and that 17 plaintiff's requests for admission were properly served.

19 In response to plaintiff's predictions regarding appeal, defendants emphasize that they will 20 make any decisions regarding appeal, if necessary, at the appropriate time.

21 IX. RELATED CASES

23 The parties are not aware of any related cases pending before any other court. There have 24 been some related EDR proceedings.

25 First, plaintiff's insurance carrier, Blue Cross Blue Shield Association, has appealed the 26 Chief Judge's November Order in the EDR proceeding to the Judicial Council of the Ninth 27 Circuit. Defendants are not a party to that appeal. That appeal has been stayed pending 28 resolution of this litigation.

1 Second, Chief Judge Kozinski issued an order requiring that another employee of the 2 Ninth Circuit be permitted to enroll her same-sex spouse in her federal employee health benefit 3 plan and instructing OPM to rescind its contrary guidance. In re Complaint of Workplace 4 Discrimination, No. 10-80075 (9th Cir. EDR Order May 11, 2010) (attached as Exhibit A to 5 Dkt. 70). The Chief Judge stayed that order pending resolution of Blue Cross Blue Shield's 6 administrative appeal in plaintiff's matter, which in turn has been stayed pending resolution of 7 this litigation. In re Complaint of Workplace Discrimination, No. 10-80075 (9th Cir. EDR Order 8 May 11, 2010) (attached as Exhibit B to Dkt. 70).

9 Third, on August 2, 2010, Chief Judge Audrey Collins, of the United States District Court 10 for the Central District of California, issued an order holding that the denial of health benefits to 11 the same-sex spouse of an employee of the Probation Office violated the prohibitions against 12 discrimination in the court's Employment Dispute Resolution Plan. In re Smith (C.D. Cal. EDR 13 Order Aug. 2, 2010) at 4 (attached as Exhibit C to Dkt. 70.) Citing Chief Judge Kozinski's 14 Orders in Ms. Golinski's matter, Chief Judge Collins concluded that the proper remedy would be 15 enrollment of the claimant's spouse in the federal insurance program. (Id. at 5.) However, in light 16 of OPM's actions in Ms. Golinski's matter and the pendency of this litigation, Chief Judge 17 Collins concluded that "no action I could take at the current time is likely to accomplish this any 18 more expeditiously than the process already set into motion by Judge Kozinski" and refrained 19 from issuing an order to either the Administrative Office or OPM "pending resolution of the 20 issues raised in the Golinski civil case." (Id.)

21 X. RELIEF

22 Plaintiff seeks an injunction compelling defendants, and those acting at their direction or 23 on their behalf, to comply with the Chief Judge's November 19, 2009 Order.

24 XI. SETTLEMENT AND ADR

25 The parties agree that this matter is not appropriate for submission to ADR.

26 XII. CONSENT TO MAGISTRATE JUDGE FOR ALL PURPOSES

27 The parties do not consent to have a magistrate judge conduct all further proceedings.

1 XIII. OTHER REFERENCES

2 The case is not suitable for reference to binding arbitration, a special master, or the 3 Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation.

4 XIV. NARROWING OF ISSUES

5 The parties anticipate that there will be no significant facts in dispute. Accordingly, the 6 parties anticipate that the case can be resolved on motions, without the need for trial.

7 XV. EXPEDITED SCHEDULE

8 The parties do not request any modifications to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to 9 expedite the case.

10 XVI. SCHEDULING

11 A. Plaintiff's position

12 Plaintiff proposes that discovery be deemed closed (except with respect to any issues 13 regarding plaintiff's previously served discovery requests) and that a hearing on cross-motions for 14 summary judgment be set for February 11, 2011, with the briefing schedule as provided in the 15 local rules. Plaintiff notes that defendants suggest a departure from the local rules in order to 16 brief the summary judgment motions "seriatim" rather than "simultaneously." Plaintiff opposes 17 any such departure, which seems designed to give defendants the "last word" in the briefing. The 18 fair approach, as provided in the local rules, is for both sides to brief their motions based on the 19 same hearing date, which will allow both sides an opportunity to respond to each other's 20 arguments but will give neither side the "last word."

21 B. Defendants' position

22 Defendants propose that further proceedings in this matter, including without limitation 23 any potential discovery and any merits briefing beyond the motions now pending, be stayed 24 pending resolution of defendants' motion to dismiss. Defendants will file a proposed order to 25 such effect for the convenience of the Court.

26 If any of plaintiff's claims are not dismissed, defendants propose they be permitted 30 27 days following the Court's ruling on defendants' motion to dismiss in which to respond to 28 plaintiff's written discovery. Defendants do not object to proceeding to cross-motions for 1 summary judgment promptly thereafter, but respectfully submit it would be most useful for the 2 Court if cross-motions are filed seriatim rather than simultaneously. Accordingly, if plaintiff's 3 Amended Complaint is not dismissed upon adjudication of defendants' motion to dismiss, 4 defendants propose that plaintiff's motion for summary judgment be due one week after the close 5 of discovery; defendant's cross-motion be due three weeks thereafter; plaintiff's cross-opposition 6 and reply be due two weeks thereafter; and defendants' reply be due two weeks thereafter, with a 7 hearing, if any, to be held at the Court's convenience.

8 XVII. TRIAL

9 The parties do not anticipate that trial will be necessary. Any trial would be a one-day 10 bench trial at most.

11 XVIII. DISCLOSURE OF NON-PARTY INTERESTED ENTITIES OR PERSONS

12 A. Plaintiff's statement

13 Plaintiff has submitted the Certification of Interested Entities or Persons required by Civil 14 Local Rule 3-16. Pursuant to Civil L.R. 3-16, the undersigned certifies that the following listed 15 persons, associations of persons, firms, partnership, corporations (including parent corporations) 16 or other entities (i) have a financial interest in the subject matter in controversy or in a party to the 17 proceeding, or (ii) have a non-financial interest in that subject matter or in a party that could be 18 substantially affected by the outcome of this proceeding: Amy Cunningham.
